Real World San Diego cast member Robin Hibbard has been arrested for punching and scratching a Marine at a bar, leaving "several six-inch scratches" on his body, The Smoking Gun reports. This incident isn't from cast member Robin's past, however; the show is currently taping and the fight occurred with MTV cameras present. She "was charged with misdemeanor battery and spent about nine hours in the Las Colinas women's jail before making bail."

Boy Meets Boy's last remaining straight man says he did the show to counter "ignorance" and says "there was never a monetary gain in my mind, ever." He also tells TV Guide, "I became emotionally involved and emotionally drained halfway through the shooting of the show. Of course, I was worried and I was very concerned that I was going to hurt someone, and I did not want to hurt James, let alone the other guys."
